

BRYAN FOR PEACE AND DISARMAMENT

utterances of the "Peerless Leader" Significant in View of Likely Cabinet Post.

WANTS U. S. TO LEAD WAY

Should Set a Shining Example to the Powers of the World of Reducing Armaments, He Says.

Raleigh, N. C., March 2.—William Jennings Bryan, the Secretary of State in Mr. Wilson's Cabinet, according to persistent reports, spoke here to-night to eight thousand people on "Peace," being a special guest of the North Carolina Peace Conference, which has been in session in this city two days. He was introduced by Governor Craig, who referred to Mr. Bryan as the greatest apostle of the Prince of Peace on earth to-day, the world's foremost orator and the highest example of real statesmanship.

Mr. Bryan declared that it was the imperative duty of the United States not only to co-operate in every way possible with the world powers in the furtherance of the world campaign for peace, but to set a shining example of disarmament. He declared the United States was peculiarly fitted in location and standing among nations of the earth to boldly take this stand.

The speaker enumerated as the greatest factors that are making for universal peace, the interests of commerce, the expensiveness of warfare—which had advanced from bow and arrow equipment to that point where the purchase of one cannon would bankrupt a man and nations were running into debt to build monster guns—increasing intelligence and the ever-growing conception of the brotherhood of man.

LANE FOR CABINET NOW Latest Guess at Interior Post Places Single Taxer.

Washington, March 2.—Franklin K. Lane, of California, for Secretary of the Interior is the latest idea which the Democrats in Congress have to offer regarding the Wilson Cabinet. Mr. Lane is a Democrat and a Single Taxer, and was appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, of which he is now chairman, by President Roosevelt. He is regarded as thoroughly sound on conservation—as a "level radical"—by some—but he will meet the approval of the Progressives generally, as he was an earnest supporter of Senator La Follette at one time. It is suggested that, having been compelled to drop Brandeis, Mr. Wilson turned to Lane as a Progressive.

It is also asserted that, as predicted in The Tribune, Colonel George W. Goethals has declined the portfolio of War, and nothing definite seems to be known regarding the man chosen in his place.

The Bryantes are declaring to-night that Mr. Bryan has protested so vigorously against the selection of Mr. McAdoo for Secretary of the Treasury that the President-elect has reconsidered his decision, but the conservative say that statement must be taken with a large grain of allowance.

The selection of James McReynolds as Attorney General instead of Chancellor Walker is regarded as practically assured. Nothing definite is known about the Secretary of Agriculture, but there are rumors that Walter H. Page is being considered for the place, Dabney stock having suffered a slump in the last few hours.

It is intimated that the names of the full Cabinet will be made public to-morrow, unless there is a hitch regarding one or more places.

WILSON IN HANDS OF PRINCETON MEN

Guard of 600 Undergraduates Ready to Escort Him to Washington on Special Train To-day.

QUIET SUNDAY AT HOME

President-Elect Still Silent on Cabinet Make-Up, but May Make Announcement Before His Departure for Capital.

Princeton, N. J., March 2.—Great preparations have been made by the students for President-elect Wilson's departure from here to-morrow morning. He will be their guest until a committee of undergraduates formally turns him over to the inaugural committee in Washington at 3:45 o'clock to-morrow afternoon, and they have planned to make the time he is in their custody as pleasant for him as they possibly can.

At 10:30 o'clock to-morrow morning about one thousand undergraduates will assemble in front of the Wilson home, in Cleveland Lane, to act as an escort for the President-elect and his party to the train. The party will ride in five automobiles, and promptly at 10:40 o'clock will start for the train, with the students as escort. Paul F. Myers and a committee consisting of P. C. Hall, W. M. Chester, Wilder Penfield and Robert Ober will look after Mr. Wilson and his party. With the President-elect will be Mrs. Wilson, the Misses Margaret, Jessie and Eleanor Wilson, Professor Stockton Axson, Mr. Wilson's brother and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President-elect's cousin.

Car Window, Perhaps. The students will envision the departure with their songs and college yells, and as the train pulls out of the station will sing the song dear to the hearts of all Princeton men, "Godby, Old Nassau."

"I wonder if they'll put me through the car window," mused Mr. Wilson when he heard of the programme. It is a Princeton tradition that when a student leaves here with his diploma, his classmates gather at the station, put his suitcases through the car windows and hold him through the window, too, singing an appropriate song. It is usually one of the most striking scenes of commencement week. There is little likelihood that this farewell, which Woodrow Wilson received when he went forth as a graduate of the class of '79 will be repeated, as there are no classmates of his resident in Princeton.

Noble Six Hundred. Six hundred undergraduates will accompany the President-elect on the train to Washington.

A stop will be made at West Philadelphia to take on Mrs. Annie Howe, sister of the President-elect, and her daughter, Mrs. Percin Cothran, with her fourteen-month-old daughter, Josephine Cothran, who is a great favorite with the President-elect, and will spend considerable of her time at the White House.

Colonel Thomas H. Birch, Mr. Wilson's personal aid, will also board the train at West Philadelphia. He will have charge of Mrs. Wilson and her party during the inauguration ceremonies. The train will also stop at Baltimore long enough to drop off the Princeton wrestling team, which is going to meet the "muddies" at Annapolis.

The Presidential train is due in Washington at 3:45 o'clock. Mr. Wilson will go at once to the Presidential room in the station, where the committee of students will formally relinquish him to Thomas Nelson Page and the inaugural committee.

Formalities over, he will motor to the Hotel Shoreham, where he will stay until he goes to the Princeton alumni smoker in the evening. Before going to the smoker he will be the guest of his cousin, John Wilson, at a reunion of the President-elect's relatives at the Shoreham Hotel. In addition to the five members of the President-elect's family, there will be twenty-five relatives by marriage or otherwise at this dinner. They will include:

John Wilson, Franklin, Penn.; Stockton Axson, Mrs. Wilson's brother; Mrs. Annie Howe, Philadelphia; J. R. Wilson, Nashville; Mrs. J. R. Wilson and daughter and Wilson Howe, Washington; George Howe, Columbia, S. C.; Mrs. Perrin Cothran, Raleigh, N. C.; Mrs. Thomas Woodrow, Denver; Mrs. James Woodrow, Columbia, S. C.; James Woodrow and Fitzwilliam Masters Woodrow, Columbia, S. C.; and Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, Rome, Ga.

Mrs. Wilson's Inaugural Gown. Mrs. Wilson's inaugural gown, which, of course, she will not need on Tuesday, because Mr. Wilson cut out the inaugural ball, was described by the future mistress of the White House to-night as "artistic and simple, graceful without being elaborate." It is made of silk of a beautiful brocade rose pattern, the predominating color of light green. It is low in the neck, which is trimmed with lace. The neck also has small applique beadwork as trimming. The gown has a long train, with a suggestion of lace down the back. The front of the gown is trimmed with lace. Butterflies in green roses are on each sleeve at the shoulder, and are also used to good effect on the trimming around the neck.

The silk for the gown was a New Continued on second page, third column.

WERE CHRIST IN CABINET Philadelphia Clergyman Gets Varying Opinions.

Philadelphia, March 2.—The Rev. A. E. Barnett, of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, took as his text to-night the theme: "What would happen if Christ was a member of President Wilson's Cabinet?" The clergyman had addressed the question to fifty prominent publicists, lawyers and laymen for an answer, and among the replies which he received and which he read from the pulpit were the following:

Robert J. Burdette: "It would not increase his authority or his power. Just about what is happening now—that He is on the throne of the universe. I don't think an appointment to a portfolio in President Wilson's Cabinet would add to the influence of the Christ in the affairs of the United States. If the President would be guided in all that he does by Christ's principles something would happen."

Jacob A. Hiss: "There would be an earthquake if Christ was in that Cabinet."

Dr. John Burroughs: "All the big newspapers immediately would be down on him."

George Ade: "I hate to predict."

FAIR WEATHER FOR WILSON

Moore Must Make Good if He Wants Cabinet Place.

Washington, March 2.—Fair, with rising temperature.

Such is the prediction of the prognosticators at the Weather Bureau in regard to climatic conditions in Washington on Tuesday. Up to to-night Willis L. Moore, chief of the Weather Bureau, remembering the "fair and somewhat cooler" pronouncement of four years ago which went so woefully astray, has been decidedly silent, but without any "probably" or "maybe" it is announced that the weather "will be fair" for the inauguration of Governor Wilson.

Mr. Moore has been mentioned as a possibility for Secretary of Agriculture under the new administration, and it has been facetiously suggested to him that he had better produce his best brand of weather. He lost the suffrage vote through the chilling breezes he served up this afternoon.

The forecast for to-morrow is fair and colder in the forenoon, with rising temperature in the afternoon and night. The mercury will drop to 20 degrees, according to the prediction, and will then gradually rise.

HONOR FOR TUB AT LAST

Findlay, Ohio, to Place Maine Relic in Square.

Findlay, Ohio, March 2.—Admiral Sigbee's bathtub, a relic of the battleship Maine, has jumped from the frying pan into the fire, as it were.

To be more exact, the abutment of the tub, which the good admiral formerly used in the privacy of his suite on the Maine has been hustled from oblivion in an Urbana chicken coop to equal oblivion in the City Hall here. And what is more, no mortal eye shall feast on the relic until Memorial Day, when, by order of the Mayor, it shall cease resting in state in the municipal building to be unveiled on the public square with fitting ceremonies.

Just now the tub is wrapped in a mantle of burlap and is occupying an honored place in the City Hall storeroom.

VICE-PRESIDENT MARSHALL, MRS. MARSHALL AND COLONEL GIGLIATT REVIEWING THE CULVER CADETS AT WASHINGTON.

SUFFRAGIST HOSTS FLEE FROM JACK FROST

Get Cold Feet at Open Air Rehearsal in Greek Costumes and Retreat to a Hotel.

Washington, March 2.—A feminine Jack Frost is the crying demand of the fair suffragettes who undertook to rehearse their tableaux vivants on the Treasury steps in a thirty-mile gale this afternoon in Greek costume. The irreverent Jack Frost tweaked the tiny toes even before their fair owners could step out of the taxis and "night liners"—which also ran by day during inauguration times—in which they had come to the rendezvous, and accordingly the rehearsal was transferred to Bauscher's and conducted indoors.

Had women begun earlier to assert their rights and secured a woman to preside over the cold and frost this never would have happened, the suffragettes say.

The necessity of holding the dress rehearsal indoors, the ungallant conduct of the aforesaid Jack Frost, the contemptible conduct of the weather man and the general disappointment led to an animated debate conducted with all that respect for parliamentary procedure which always characterizes a meeting of excited women, over the proposition:

"Resolved, That natural wool union suits are a more appropriate element of a Greek costume than gooseflesh."

Just as the debate began to assume coherent proportions all more men were barred from the room and the female scribbles who remained were permitted to depart only after they had been individually and collectively sworn to secrecy. As a consequence of this drastic action an interested public will be compelled to await the tableaux before its breathless suspense is relieved.

The weather man promises to abate to-morrow the chilling breezes which prevented the open air rehearsal to-day, but he cruelly intimates that the mercury will be just as low and that there may be even flurries of snow in the air. The dauntless suffragettes declare that they will not be deterred from posing in Greek costumes even by a snowstorm, and an eager populace is looking forward to the opportunity of inspecting some of the pinkies toes ever placed on public exhibition.

P. S.—Late this evening official announcement was from suffragette headquarters apropos of the tableaux that "All the characters will be dressed in classic costume, but their draperies will be warm."

SNOW ON VESUVIUS LID LAUGHS HIMSELF TO JAIL

Rumbling Heard, but Eruption Unlikely for Many Years.

Naples, March 2.—The rumbling of Mount Vesuvius, which has been persistent for some time past, has caused considerable alarm. New cracks and fissures are to be seen and a great mass of basalt has rolled down its dark outline contrasting against the white bed of snow.

Professor Mallada, assistant director of the observatory, made an ascent of the mountain and descended into the crater, which has been totally inactive since the eruption of 1906. He found it filled with snow and the lower strata showed no signs of melting.

"This indicates," said Professor Mercalli, director of the observatory, "that the zone of fire is still a very considerable distance from the bottom of the crater. It is inevitable that the activity of the volcano will be resumed, but that is not probable for from five to twenty years."

BOY KILLED FLYING KITE Used Wire, Instead of String, and Got Electric Shock.

Portsmouth, Va., March 2.—While flying a kite to-day, Sidney Bright, sixteen years old, was instantly killed by electricity.

The boy attached a thin wire to the kite, instead of string, and when the kite fell across an electric wire, 11,000 volts passed through his body.

FLAGMAN'S PRESENCE OF MIND SAVES EXPRESS

Puts Signal Torpedo on Track and Washington Train Escapes Disaster.

Princeton Junction, N. J., March 2.—By the narrowest of margins the Pennsylvania night limited from New York to Washington, while running at seventy miles an hour, to-night escaped crashing into a freight wreck just below here. The presence of mind displayed by John Schrenk, a flagman, and by the limited's engineer aided materially in averting disaster.

The freight train was running at a good speed when, with a jar that threw Schrenk from the cupola of the caboose, the long string of cars broke in the middle and the head car was thrown across the outside track, used by south-bound passenger traffic.

From his post in the cupola Schrenk had seen the headlight of the limited hardly a mile in the rear coming on at full speed on the outside track. As he staggered to his feet, half stunned, instinct told him that whatever had happened it was almost certain to have affected the path of the oncoming limited. He thereupon ran down the track toward the approaching express, which was loaded with passengers bound for the inauguration.

Schrenk had signal torpedoes in his pocket. After running a hundred yards he planted one on the rail and then rushed on. Finally he stopped in the center of the track and waved his arms in the hope that the engineer of the express would see him in the glare of the headlight. He had no time to plant a second torpedo before he had to leap aside.

The engineer of the limited was driving at top speed, with no stop scheduled before North Philadelphia. He did not see the flagman, nor was he supposed to stop on the signal of one torpedo, which ordinarily means to slow down. But the engineer had a "hunch," and that one torpedo was enough. He shut down the brakes hard and halted his train a bare 100 feet from the freight car across his track.

CASTRO BACK IN UNITED STATES.

Key West, March 2.—Cipriano Castro, exiled former President of Venezuela, arrived here last evening on the steamer Governor Cobb from Havana, Cuba, and left at once for Washington, where he will remain during the inauguration festivities.

U. S. TROOPERS KILL MEXICANS

Sharp Fight Along Arizona Boundary Between 9th Negro Cavalry and Huerta's Regular Patrol.

AROUSE DOUGLAS CITIZENS

Arm Themselves to Resist 'Invasion'—Diaz Hero of Day at Bull Fight in Mexico City—Rebels Kill 50 Regulars.

El Paso, Tex., March 2.—In a running fight on the border near Douglas, Ariz., early to-day, between Mexican soldiers and troopers of the 9th United States Cavalry, four Mexicans were killed. None of the American troops was killed or wounded.

Four American army officers walking on the American line three miles from Douglas are reported to have been fired on by forty regular Mexican soldiers patrolling the border out of Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas.

Sixteen of the negro troopers of the 9th rushed to the place of the firing and a spirited skirmish ensued. The American soldiers were holding their position at the international line when reinforced by two troops of the 9th.

The Mexicans were routed, leaving four killed on the field and others straggling through the brush wounded. It is said that the American troops became so excited that they overstepped the boundary and pursued the Mexicans for some distance.

The fight caused great excitement at Douglas, to which the telephone lines are not open to-day. The townspeople armed themselves and went to the boundary, believing the Mexican soldiers were attempting to invade the United States. Within a few minutes hundreds of citizens were at the place, armed and ready. Cowboys also rushed in from nearby ranches.

Mexico City, March 2.—General Felix Diaz received a great ovation this afternoon at the bullring, the first performance of the matador's sport since the bombardment of the capital. Ten thousand spectators stood and cheered lustily when General Diaz entered a box in the arena, attended only by his secretary, his chief of staff and a few friends, and he was urged to rise time and again to acknowledge the demonstrations.

Several groups of prisoners who escaped from Belem Prison during the recent bombardment and were being returned to prison to-day made a valiant attempt to resist their guard. The police fired a volley, killing three and wounding five of them. None of the prisoners was prominent politically.

Peace Parade Reviewed.

At noon President Huerta, General Diaz, General Mondragon and General Blanquet stood on the balcony of the National Palace and reviewed the parade organized by the Felix Diaz Club in honor of the men who were most closely identified with the recent revolt. Several thousand persons, representing the different branches of the military service, civic societies and fraternal organizations, afoot, mounted, and in carriages, paraded through the principal streets. Thousands of spectators lined the streets surrounding the palace, but were not markedly demonstrative, although the "Vivas" were numerous.

In front of the Palace women in a carriage heading a delegation of factory employees released four doves of peace. Among the transparencies were some bearing such inscriptions as, "Honor and Glory to the Restorers of Peace" and "Our Country Is Saved."

Press Appeals for Peace.

The Metropolitan Press Association has joined in the patriotic endeavor to restore complete pacification of the country and has sent to Governor Venustiano Carranza of Coahuila a telegram imploring him to desist in his opposition to the new government and give his support to President Huerta.

The newspapers of the country, without notable exception, are refraining from criticism of the new administration and are lending their active support to the pacification programme.

Equival Oregon, Minister of Finance, sent a message to Congress late yesterday asking an authorization to float two loans, one for 100,000,000 pesos to be placed abroad and the other for 20,000,000 pesos to be floated at home. The larger loan would be used for general purposes, including the expense of the army. The other would be employed in the payment of indemnities arising from the revolution of 1910, including the Chinese claim of 3,000,000 pesos.

Fifty soldiers have been killed in an attack on a military train by the Zapatistas south of Ajusco, on the line of the Mexican Central to Cuernavaca. The train was stopped in a cut, the rebels firing from all sides. The engagement lasted approximately an hour. The regulars succeeded in driving the attacking party to the hills.

There is much interest in a long conference which Señor de la Barra, Minister of Foreign Relations, had last night with Ambassador Wilson, and the subsequent Cabinet meeting, which lasted till nearly morning. All parties are reticent on the subjects under discussion.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 2.—A force of Maderistas captured the custom house on the Mexican side of the line at Naco to-day, after a brief fight, according to a telephone message from Bisbee to-night. No one was killed or seriously injured. The victory gives the Sonora Rebels their first port of entry and controls all shipments to Cananea.
